The Casino Roof Garden Opened in Spite of the Weather.

News and Gossip Concerning Theatres (and Theatrical People.

The weather was anything but roofgardeny last night, yet the Casino management opened its al-fresco annex and gave a vaudeville entertainment that pushed the clouds away, in a figurative sense, for the large audience that was present. Arches of multi-colored lights intercepted the skyey gloom, and the plant-strewn roof presented a pretty and attractive appearance in spite of Jupiter Piuvius's frown. Those who didn't like the chilly breezes and the rain went downstairs and saw "The Passing Show," but those who remained upstairs saw an equally good show. If Messrs. Canary & Lederer maintain this standard of entertainment, the Casino's roof garden should be the most popular open-air resort in New York this Summer. There were seventeen specialities on the programme, all good. Watson & Hutchings, the German dialect comedians; Minnie Renwood, the serpentine dancer; Alice Raymond, cornettist; the Thurgate sisters, Hungarian dancers, Max Pettingill and his funny dog "Jim," and Harrison and Marr. eccentric comedians. Watson & Hutchings, the German dialect comedians; Minnie Renwood, the serpentine dancer; Alice Raymond, cornettist; the Thurgate sisters, Hungarian dancers; Max Pettingill and his funny dog "Jim," and Harrison and Marr, eccentric comedians, were only some of the clever people who appeared and made the night enjoyable.

A painful scene occurred at the Professional Woman's League rooms on West Thirtieth street on Tuesday aftermoon. It was the farewell meeting in the dear old quarters before removal further uptown. Touching addresses were made. In the midst of one of these a burst of ribaid laughter echoed through the hall. Henry E. Dixey and Walter Jones, the comedians, were on their way to Manager E. E. Rice's offices on the floor above. Dixey was telling a funny story. Jones was shrieking with merriment. Not to have done so would have been a grave breach of professional etiquette. An awful silence fell over the League meeting. The speaker paused. Several ladies gazed severely through the open doorway, and remarked "Hush!" and "Order!" with great asperity. The abashed comedians tiptoed upstairs and hatched a wicked conspiracy. Five minutes later Dixey peered cautiously over the banisters and whispered, "Now, let'er go!" There was a fearful crash and a cloud of dust as the two vile men fell downstairs simultaneously. Both are acrobats. Jones's headlong plunge eclipsed his famous dive after the cigar-stump in "1492." Dixey described two distinct somersaults. They landed in the League doorway in a hopelessly confused heap. Then they murmured an apology for the "accident" and fied. After the feminine shrieks of alarm had subsided the speaker discovered that she had lost the thread of her discourse. A speedy adjournment followed.

Daniel Frohman and E. H. Sothern will sail for England in the Paris on Wednesday, June 6. They will both re-turn in time for the opening of Mr. Sothern's eight annual season, early in August, at the Lyceum Theatre.

An amusing controversy has been raging over the song "Greet the Old Man with a Smile," which Seabrooke sings in "Tabasco." Several critics allege that it is suspiciously like "Tit-Willow." Probably they never heard the touching song that many an infant prodizy used to sing years ago in that classic play, "Ten Fights in a Barroom." The song referred to is called "Father, Dear Father, Come Home with Me Now."

"Habette," Audran's three-act comic colera, will be presented in New York for the first time next week by the Wilbur Cpera Company, at Practor's Theatre, Eusle Kirwin will sing the title role, while W. H. Coniy will be the Mat of the Mill.

The little fellows had nothing be but rur in and scoop up the money, the Gerry Society notified Manager iderson that it would be necessary to we a license for the boys, and as Mr. nderson doesn't care to bother with rry Society methods, he got out of the Boulty in the easiest way by letting the business, who are over sixteen, k up the bills when the song, which miss Tilley's greatest success, is over.

Will S. Rising, the tenor, has had a splendid reception at Keith's Union Square Theatre. His descriptive songs and sweet ballads are thoroughly enjoyed by the audiences. Mr. Rising will be heard during the Summer in various roof-garden concerts.

Bessie Bonehill has been specially en-taged for "The Skating Rink" at the Bijou Theatre and will appear this even-. . .

Owing to the elaborate preparations nvolved the third series of Kilanyi's riginal living pictures in "1492" at the arden Theatre will not be shown until aturday night. Side by side are the announcements that the Old Dominion Jockey Club is a licensed race course, and that the Old Dominion Jockey Club is not a licensed race course. He stated Brighton would have 1, 2, 3 betting; that the Jockey Club took no cognizance of bets, Jockey Club took no cognizance of bets, and that whatever question there was in regard to the matter and to "foreign" books would be settled at a later time. On this understanding Engeman went ahead and made his contracts with the bookmakers. He received the Jockey Club notice after the bookmakers had "weighed in" If he obeyed the Jockey Club order then he would have to break faith with the bookmakers many of whom had stipulated that they make 1.

But the Jockey Club may want to punish him by taking away his license. No Stewards from the Jockey Club arrived to look after the racing at Brighton yesterday. This may have been an oversight.

The fact that licenses have been granted to the Country Club, of Providence, R. I., and the Country Club, of Brookline. Mass., is what the tomale man would call "hot stuff" to those followers of racing, who now learn for the first time that such clubs are in existence.

Their way-up-in-G showing against Cleveland is excuse enough for the pets of the Polo Grounds to feel that they are now in and "set" for a hurricane romp up the column. Such games as the 30,001 persons saw the Giants put up yesterday will win nine times out of ten. The Cleveland players themselves say this, and they ought to know a little bit about it. The New Yorks deserve a patting on the back for the masterly manner in which they worked up two victories against Cleveland, and they all may turn to and shake hands with themselves for chasing the boys from Euclidville through eleven heart-breaking innings before the Westerners reached the goal a winner. Here's to yesterday. This may have been an oversight.

The Old Dominion Jockey Club has bolted the traces by putting on foreign books, and a notice will be posted over the gates, "Abandon all hope of mercy from the Jockey Club, ye who enter here." Henceforth any owner, trainer and they ought to know a little bit Jockey Club tracks. The foreign book at Camp Grange was a necessity. The meeting would not pay without it, and therefore the officials concluded that they had better freelance it. They were very fair with the horsemen, however, and notified them of the dreadful fate that awaited them if they continued to earn a living.

Meekin is suffering from a stiff neck, having wrenched the muscles severely in Tuesday's game with Cleveland. He will not attempt to play again until the weather is free from this moisture and chilliness. Perhaps Huyler Westervelt will go in the box this afternoon. The "boy" feels strong, and he would have dearly loved to go in against Cleveland yesterday afternoon. The Jockey Club is claiming with a great flourish of trumpets that racing, since the organization of that association of dictators, is fletter this year than ever before. This is hardly a fact. The programmes at Morris Park yesterday and to-day are the poorest ever offered by that association. The large attendances that are seen are the result of winter tracks having been closed during the cold weather and not because of any confidence in the Jockey Club and its methods.
